Bosco and Baby Race on the podium in the Italian Rok Finals at Adria

Although victory was missed by a blink of an eye, Luca Bosco and the Baby Race team got a great result in the Italian Rok Finals held in Adria. In the Junior Rok class, Bosco took a second place finish after having emerged as one of the stars of the weekend. The gap to winner Cuman was minimal, demonstrating the speed of the driver and the reliability of the Baby Race kart.

In the Shifter Rok, Nicola Marcon is back on track with Baby Race to defend the title won in 2016. The boy defended well, but due to some too much contact and for an unjust penalty he finished eighth, highlighting his qualities.

The team was less lucky in the Mini Rok class. Alessandro Cenedese qualified well, but a contact on the way jeopardized any chance of pointing at the top. The first of the Baby Race drivers was Brando Badoer, 19th, then Giosué Galbiati, 23rd, and Cenedese, who took P28 with a lot of penalties. In the Bridgestone Finals, faced by those who had failed to enter Rok Final, Nikita Johnson cruised to victory while Rashid Al Dhaheri was ranked 12th after hitting a penalty.
