The drivers from the MINI, OKJ, and OK categories take to the track at Franciacorta, for the first of the two rounds of the 2023 edition of the WSK Euro Series, along with the drivers of the two new OK-N and OK-N Junior categories established by FIA Karting and ACI Sport. The overall participation remains substantial with over 310 drivers, once again confirming how the Euro Series has become an essential event in the WSK Promotion calendar.

The WSK Euro Series has always served as a launching pad for many young talents. This is evidenced by the fact that many of the current stars in Formula 1 have competed in this historic WSK series, which boasts an impressive list of motorsport champions in its hall of fame.

The final event of the WSK Euro Series will take place in the second round on November 5th at the International Circuit Napoli in Sarno, with the participation of the KZ2 category as well.
