WSK is a global benchmark for International Karting

The successful opening of the 17th edition of the WSK Super Master Series 2026, held last January 25th in Muro Leccese, marks the 21st year of WSK Promotion's history. Once again, it confirmed the series as a high-level event, rich with top-tier talent, fierce competitiveness, and a technical parity that makes every moment on track decisive. It is precisely this mix that makes the series special: consistently packed categories, young talents in constant evolution, and absolute technical excellence—a result of the tireless work of both teams and drivers. This shared commitment, along with the passion of the fans at the circuit and those following via live stream, helps maintain WSK as the global benchmark for international karting, with competitors representing approximately 60 nations.

Sarno: a fast and historic karting track

The series now moves to Sarno, a historic and high-speed circuit where precision is just as vital as the courage to push limits. Here, the increasing scoring system can make any result into a turning point in the title race. This second round sees even more protagonists joining the pack, with high attendance not only in the youth categories but also in the high-performance KZ2 class, featuring many international champions ready to assert themselves in the battle at the front.

The classification leaders after the round in La Conca:

KZ2 Championship: 1st Max Orlov (//) (CPB Sport – Sodikart/TM Kart/LeCont) points 90
