Most completes ADAC GT Masters calendar for 2018

- The ADAC GT Masters will line up for first time in Czech Republic
- Super Sports Car League to be contested over seven race weekends
- Pre-season testing again in Oschersleben at end of March

Munich: Autodrom Most will be hosting the ADAC GT Masters for the first time next year as the series makes its Czech debut. This historic circuit near the German-Czech border is the final piece in the jigsaw for the 2018 ADAC GT Masters calendar. Rounds 3 and 4 of the forthcoming campaign will be contested there on the weekend of 27th - 29th April. SPORT1 will once again be showing all races live and in full length on free-to-air TV in 2018.

The ADAC GT Masters will again start the new season with pre-season testing at the Motorsport Arena Oschersleben (26th - 28th March). The first race weekend will take place two and a half weeks later (13th - 15th April) at the same venue. Since 2008, this particular venue near Magdeburg has had the honour of staging the opening event. Two weeks later, the Super Sports Car League will move on to Autodrom Most which becomes the 13th track in the history of the series to host a race weekend. The 4.21km circuit is located only a few kilometres beyond the German-Czech border and some 80 kilometres northwest of Prague. The pit facilities have been upgraded in recent years and the surface completely re-laid. The ADAC TCR Germany series will also be contested during the ADAC GT Masters weekend at Most.
